Notes: what is the reason behind such thoughts that crossed mind of Priest like Gargacharya? Definitely because of asuravesha (presence of Asura) which was aided by taunting of Yadava.

If not how could the same Gargacharya earlier during naming ceremony of Sri Krishna told Nanda "Don't think that he is your son. He is Sriman Narayana himself".

Gargacharya prayed to him to grant a boon to beget a son who would kill Sri Hari.

Notes: Perhaps the metal ore which Gargacharya consumed now became the stalks of iron which eventually destroyed the Yadava clan?

128. Please avoid our boon from becoming meaningless and make it useful for him. How can that be done? In the future let him burn your enemy Kalayavana. (Only then it will become meaningful for Muchkunda King)

Notes: Devatha's boon was of no value to Muchukunda King because it was meaningless. It became valuable when in the future he came to aid in Sri Krishna's task. Because by doing so he earned the affection of God. Muchukunda's incident's background is described in Bhagavata. It is as below:

Earlier Muchukunda - son of Mandhata who is the son of Yavanashwaraya had helped the Gods in the war between Gods and Asuras. Pleased by this Devathas asked Muchukunda "What boon do you seek?" "I don't need heaven etc. Just give me sleep. Whoever wakes me up from my sleep should be burnt down to ashes by my sight". Accordingly Devatha's granted him the boon. In order to make this boon to become meaningful, Sri Krishna fought with Kalayavana and pretended to flee from the battleground ran to the cave where Muchukunda was sleeping. Kalayavana chased him, Krishna hid there (not because of fear). Kalayavana who entered the cave thought Muchukunda king as Sri Krishna and woke him up by kicking him. Muchukunda woke up. The moment he saw him, Kalayavana was burnt down to ashes. Due to this Muchukunda earned value. God's boon was also fulfilled.

Here Kalayavana thought Muchukunda was Sri Krishna. This was his ignorance as well as false knowledge. He was punished due to this.

of this Shambarasura captivated her.

Notes: Here there are 2 reasons for the curse.

1. Thinking inferiorly “Virtuous women like Draupadi had five husbands?”
2. Doubting “Can someone Superior like Brahma talk like this “

2. Since they think that Salt is the most insignificant item among all the other food ingredients they have asked Sri Krishna to bring Salt. But they don't realize that "there is nothing more savory than salt, and no relative greater than mother"

Notes: Here Sri Madhwacharya has used the word "sudukhavasa". Which means "responsible for good misery" meaning who ever seeks him with devotion will be happy. e.g. history of Kuntidevi - he who provokes him will suffer immensely - Hamsa and Dibika are proof for this. Sri Anandateertha has elevated the greatness of Durvasa by using such marvelous words.

But Acharya is not so ignorant. He does not search for words and prosodial units. When the demigods protecting words are standing by him will he have loss of words?

Notes: Why has Sri Madhwacharya given so many details of Hamsa and Dibika and has used so many slokas for this war? When thinking about slokas from 223 to 298 we can notice few points. Earlier in Ramayana Prakarana, when explaining yuddaKanda, it has been explained with examples as to how well disciplined and compact the concepts and tenets of Dwaita philosophy are. In a similar fashion here in the war incident of Hamsa Dibika certain information can be seen.

1. Hamsa and Dibika mistook that Sri Krishna was a mortal human being. This is the false knowledge they had. Death and Andatamas are definite results of false knowledge.
2. Hamsa and Dibika wished to perform Rajasuya Sacrifice. They do not do it out of devotion to Vishnu. It was done with hatred against Vishnu. It was done with a wish to bring material fame to their father. Not with a divine view.
3. Jarasandha did not have belief in the Sacrifice. He dislikes devotion to Vishnu. Still he desired after hearing about the purpose of the sacrifice. Affection towards his pupils was the reason for his acceptance. For him fame of his pupils was greater than his own status. He followed the principle "if someone is his friend's enemy, than he is my enemy too".Anyways Sri Krishna is his enemy.He has not been able to gain victory over Sri Krishna. He thought that now if this Hamsa Dibika gain victory over Sri Krishna, it is indirectly a victory for him too.
4. Most important point is that just as Gods have classes and gradations, even the demons have them too. Though we need not have to learn and follow this, it is necessary to know about it. So Sri Jagannathadasaru had reserved a Sandhi for this in Harikatamrutasara. Although SriMadhwacharya does not clearly state it here, he has given it as a hint in the war between Hamsa Dibika and the Yadavas. For e.g. on one side group of Hamsa, Dibika, Hidimba and their followers and on the other side Sri Krishna, Balarama, Satyaki, Ghada and other Yadavas. When the war took place on one side Gods were present and on the other side Demons. Still the Gods could not be victorious over Demons. They have been defeated in the battle. They have sought the help of Powerful ones. Sometimes they have even fled from the battlefield. Meaning it could be said here that the victorious Demons are at higher grade in terms of strength compares to the defeated Gods. Sometimes when the Demons were loosing there were incidents where the other demons came to their help. Even there gradation can be noticed from philosophical point of view. Balarama, Satyaki and Gadha failed many times in the battle. Finally Supereminent Sri Krishna had to come and slay them. Here the decision has been given that Supreme Lord is higher than Gods and Demons in gradation and he is Supreme. At many places gods cannot over-ride the boons given by Brahma and Rudra. At that time Sri Hari comes to the rescue and has helped the Gods. He has protected them.
5. There is no danger to the devotees who are protected under the shelter of Sri Hari's feet. From the incident of this war it can be understood that they do not have any miseries. Much more information can be derived from this by the knowledgeable ones.
